

EUROPE READY FOR SPARK TO IGNITE REVOLUTION, SAYS VANDERLIP; HOPE LIES IN U. S.

Banker Adds to Previous Prophecies in Speech to Merchants' Association.

Disorganization of All Industry
Likely to Cause Worse
Hurt Than War.

Frank A. Vanderlip, who ceased yesterday to be president of the greatest non-Governmental banking institution in the world—the National City Bank—delivered an address to-day at the last luncheon of the Merchants' Association for the season at the Hotel Astor.

He repeated his much-quoted assertions after several months' study of after-war conditions in Europe, which were made at the meeting of the Economic Club a week ago Monday, and went even further in his prophecies of disaster if capital in the United States undertook to exploit the distressed condition of industrial Europe selfishly.

William C. Breed presided at the meeting, which was attended by 2,500 members of the association, all active New York business men, keenly interested in Mr. Vanderlip's utterances because of his retirement from the bank without previous notice at the first meeting of the directors following his first speech after returning from Europe.

Among other things Mr. Vanderlip said:

"I believe a hurt has come to Europe that may be greater than any hurt that is measured by the destruction that war has wrought—the disorganization of the whole industrial machine of the continent of Europe and in a lesser degree of England.

"The disorganization of that industrial machine is astounding in its completeness. I am not speaking of Northern France and Belgium. Flowing out of that lack of production, out of the idleness and want and the hunger, there may come forces more terrible than the war itself.

"There is inflammable material in every European nation which can blaze revolution, and it will if the people are subjected to sufficient want and hunger and distress. You know we would all be Bolsheviks if we got hungry enough.

"Europe must operate its factories if Europe is to live. Europe can save herself only by going to work. And Europe is idle to a terrible degree at the present time.

"In the main we must give Europe credit, not credit to rehabilitate her treasuries, which are very empty, but credit to rehabilitate her manufactures, credit in the form of raw material, of machinery, of a certain amount of food, of equipment for her railroads.

"Unless Europe goes to work very promptly, Europe is going into trouble that is deeper than anything she has had. And then what of America? Some people have been calling me a pessimist, but if you could share my opinion of the opportunity that America is going to have in the world, the opportunity of service, of responsibility, and of recompense; if you could share my opinion, you would be the most optimistic crowd of men that ever was gotten together under a roof.

"I believe the raises in wages in England have been absolutely necessary. We cannot have underpayment of labor here either. The nation that dominates the world is going to be the nation that brings about harmonious relations between capital and labor.

"If we can add to the other tremendous advantages this nation has, a real understanding between capital and labor which will bring labor gratefully to its job, then I believe labor can have a greater share than ever it has had, and that capital can have a greater share, too; and that will be the greatest opportunity that America can have if it can reach that settlement."

David Z. T. Yui, Secretary of the Chinese Commission which visited this country before the war, followed Mr. Vanderlip and talked frankly about the feelings of the Chinese towards the Japanese and the reasons why assistance from the United States was sought by China.

TOOK FIVE YEARS TO LEARN MARRIAGE WAS A MISTAKE

Patent Lawyer Ordered to Pay
Alimony Says Wife Had No
Sense of Humor.

"Five years after we were married," Isaac S. McGiehan told Supreme Court Justice Van Slicen to-day in Brooklyn, "we agreed that it was all a mistake. My wife was cold, almost a stoic. She was absolutely without a sense of humor. I married her out of pity."

Pending the trial of Mrs. Carrie McGiehan's suit for separation, McGiehan, described as a patent lawyer with offices in Fifth Avenue, Manhattan, was ordered to pay $200 a week alimony and $200 counsel fees.

Mrs. McGiehan charges her husband with abandoning her fourteen years ago. He had gone to England and was in the rubber business, she said, but until 1905 contributed to her support. She thought his present yearly income must be at least $5,000. They were married in 1878.

British Soldiers in Egypt Reported Forming Council.

LONDON, June 4.—British soldiers in Egypt, despairing of being demobilized, are forming soldiers' councils, the Labor Herald reported to-day. "Unless the Government treats with them a general strike is threatened," the newspaper said. "It is reported that on May 13 the ordinance corps at Cairo struck and set fire to an ammunition dump."

Daughter of Attorney General and Children In Other Cities Who Were Imperilled by Bombs

A. Mitchell Palmer's Daughter—

The above photograph of the daughter of Attorney General Palmer was taken from a painting blown from the wall following the explosion of the bomb that wrecked the home of her father in Washington. Polly and Sam Powers are the children of Representative Leland W. Powers who were injured by flying glass following a bomb explosion at their home in Newtonville, Mass. The boy is the son of D. C. Cassidy. His father's house was wrecked by a bomb in Pittsburgh.

WEIRD MUSIC WAILS CHINATOWN'S GRIEF OVER DEAD LEADER

Cosmopolitan Throng Follows
Body of Rich Hip Sing Tong
Head to Brooklyn Cemetery.

The wail of reed and the whine of one-stringed fiddles, with time-marking crashes of beaten brass, sounded the funeral of Leung Kai Main, rich restaurant keeper and President of the Hip Sing Tong, in Chinatown to-day.

Behind two carriages loaded to overflowing with floral tributes from his Tong brothers in a dozen cities between San Francisco and New York, the body rode in state to Evergreen Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Long before the funeral started from No. 35 Mott Street, the little back room of the undertaker's shop was filled with flowers which banked the casket. A carriage stopped, a white woman in black dismounted, a Chinese of middle age followed and the two, assisted from the step, the bent and wailing figure of the widow of Leung.

Dressed in the Chinese women's costume of trousers and coat of black, a heavy black mourning veil from her head to her hips, Mrs. Leung Kai Main, sobbed her grief in a chant which rose and fell amid the mingled voices of English, Chinese, Yiddish and Italian, thronging the sidewalk and surging into the sanctity of the mortuary room.

It was a Hip Sing Tong funeral. None of the other secret societies was represented. But the Hip Sing turned out. The pallbearers were members and the marshal of the funeral and director of all affairs in it was K. B. King, Secretary of the Hip Sing Tong.

The band of seven pieces, which rode in a carry-all, was comprised of Hip Sing brothers who assembled at their headquarters at No. 15 Pell Street.

The march was much more American in custom than in color. In Chinatown. That is due to Mr. King who is thoroughly Americanized. Not even were the little squares of paper flung to the high winds to make it difficult for the Evil Spirit to catch the soul of the dead one.

Leung Kai Main owned three restaurants and a drygoods shop. He was wealthy and lived at No. 146 Bleeker Street with his wife and four children. Early in the day the funeral service was preached at the 31st Street Baptist Church.

SOCIALISTS HERE CALL BOMB OUTRAGES FRAME UP

Work of "Agent Provocateur" Says
Julius Gerber—No One Indorses and All Disavow.

Socialists in New York call the bomb outrages the work of agents provocateur or a "frame-up." Nobody indorses it; all disavow it. For example:

Algeron Lee, Socialist leader in the Board of Aldermen—"A rather too elaborately staged frame-up."

John Reed, one of the leaders of the Socialist Left Wing—"Hears all the marks of a deliberate attempt on the part of the capitalists to try to provoke hostility against Socialists. The International Socialist movement has nothing to do with individual acts of terrorism."

Julius Gerber, executive secretary of the New York local of the Socialist Party—"Might have been the work of an agent provocateur employed by a private organization."

Joseph Winberg of the Money Defense Committee—"The International Workers' Defense League unanimously condemns these explosions. Mitchell Palmer has shown himself desirous of bringing about justice in the money case."

TO DIRECT TUNNEL WORK.

C. M. Holland Named Chief Engineer of New Tube to Jersey.
Announcement was made to-day of the appointment of Clifford M. Holland as chief engineer of the project to connect New Jersey and New York with a vehicular tunnel. He will serve under the two State Commissions at a salary of $10,000 a year, beginning June 15. It will be his duty to establish office and field staffs for the preliminary work and to supervise plans that can be submitted to contractors for bids.

The Commissions also announced the appointment of a Board of Consulting Engineers consisting of V. Davies, Col. Henry W. Hodges, Col. William J. Wilgus, Major John A. Hensel and Prof. William H. Burr. They will be paid $10,000 a year each from the time they begin actual work.

HYLAN TRANSFERS HIS BODY GUARD TO BOMB SQUAD

O'Hara's Shift Said to Follow
Lax Methods in Rounding
Up Explosion Perpetrators.

Police Headquarters and the office of the Investigation Bureau are hot with rumors as to why Mayor Hyman caused the transfer of his brother-in-law, Irving O'Hara, a first grade detective, from the post of bodyguard to the Mayor to the Bomb Squad of the Detective Bureau. One rumor is that the Mayor has been informed that certain detectives of the Bomb Squad let the people who mailed thirty-four bombs to prominent people throughout the country in the closing days of last April slip through their hands. It is also said that the Mayor has sent his brother-in-law to make a quiet investigation.

Detective O'Hara is not qualified by training or experience for work in the Bomb Squad, and as far as observation serves he isn't doing much active detective duty on the outside. The Mayor is acutely aware that an administration stands or falls on the record of the Police Department, and that is why, according to wide-spread reports, he is particularly angry at the way the Bomb Squad handled the matter of the mailed bombs.

It is known that on May 5 certain detectives, acting under the direction of Second Deputy Police Commissioner William Lahey, who is in charge of the Detective Bureau, surrounded a rooming house at First Avenue and Tenth Street, and that other detectives entered the house and invaded a certain room, the number of which had been furnished them—and found it empty. Two men and two women who had occupied the room for some time had faded away about three hours before the detectives arrived and they covered their trail so well that it has not been picked up since.

The report is that a volunteer informant told the Detective Bureau about the two men and two women in the First Avenue rooming house more than twenty-four hours before the raid was made. Whether a watch was put on the house is not known outside the inside circles of the Detective Bureau, but if a watch was placed the suspects walked through it.

Police Headquarters reporters recall that on May 4, some time along in the late afternoon, they were informed by Commissioner Lahey that the people behind the plot to send bombs through the mails would be under arrest within twenty-four hours. The statement was positive. And on May 5 the reporters were tipped off to keep close tab on the Detective Bureau, for big news relating to the bomb matter might be released at any minute.

It is also reported that the Mayor is suspicious of other reports which have reached him from headquarters about matters which have been the subject of criticism in the press.

And that is why, if common gossip in police and Federal Service circles is to be believed, Detective Irving O'Hara was transferred from the City Hall to the Bomb Squad at Police Headquarters.

SOLDIER, CLAIMED BY THREE FAMILIES, SAILS FOR HOME

"Roland Phillips," Who Caused
Identification Puzzle, Will Arrive
Next Week.

"Roland Phillips," a soldier suffering from amnesia, who has caused an identification mystery which baffles the entire War Department, sailed from Brest yesterday on the transport Mount Vernon, due in New York next Wednesday. Three families hope to be at the Hoboken pier to identify the soldier.

The Rev. Malcolm James MacLeod, pastor of the Collegiate Reformed Church of St. Nicholas, 44th Street and Fifth Avenue, whose son, Private Henry Blakeley MacLeod, disappeared a year ago; Mrs. Roland Phillips, No. 120 South Parsons Street, Flushing, L. I., whose son, Roland Phillips, was reported killed in action with the 166th Infantry, and Mrs. Emma Phillips of Evanston, Ind., whose son, Roland Phillips, went overseas, will try to identify the soldier.

RACE TRACK-GUARD KILLED BY AIRPLANE ON GROUND

Former Army Aviator Was Taking Off When Machine Struck
Pinkerton Man.

Dunn C. Steele, just out of the United States Army Air Service, with a record of a long period of flying without a mishap, killed a man while taking off from the infield at Belmont Park last evening just after the finish of the last race. W. J. Tate, a Pinkerton agent, was the victim.

Steele, who is the Vice President of the "Chateau Joe" Stealin Corporation, started full power ahead for his take-off, and was just about to leave the ground when the Pinkerton man loomed up in his path. One of the lower wings of the machine struck Tate on the right shoulder and right side of the head, killing him instantly.

Steele was arrested by Capt. Duhanne of the Pinkerton force.

IMPERATOR RIPS AGWIDALE'S BOW IN CRASH AT SEA

World's Second Largest Ship
and Freighter Both Proceed
After Collision.

The Emperor, second largest ship in the world, was in collision with the 7,200-ton steamship Agwidale at 3 A. M. to-day forty-eight miles north-east of Nantucket Light Ship, and 230 miles off the American coast. The Agwidale's bow was crushed but she was not seriously damaged, and the Emperor escaped injury.

There was a heavy fog off the coast, and both ships were proceeding slowly, sounding their fog sirens. When the Emperor saw the smaller vessel suddenly loom up in the mist they were so close it was impossible to avoid a head-on blow.

The U. S. Tiger, which was near, sent out a S. O. S., which was picked up by the Cape Cod wireless station. All three ships stopped and prepared to launch lifeboats, but an examination showed that the Agwidale was in no danger. The Emperor proceeded on her way and the Agwidale resumed her trip to New York under her own steam and is expected tomorrow.

The Emperor sailed yesterday from Hoboken for Brest in charge of Capt. Casey B. Morgan, who is making his first trip as commander of the big vessel. Because of this, and because it is the first return trip to Europe of the Emperor since the world war started, unusual ceremony attended yesterday's departure. Capt. Morgan is one of the most popular officers in the United States Navy. During the war he was in command of the transport Agamemnon, and later was assistant to Admiral Gleaves at Hoboken.

The Agwidale, which is operated by the U. S. Shipping Board, left Rotterdam in ballast on May 22 for this port.

CITY VICTOR IN SUIT INVOLVING $1,000,000

Litigation Arose From Issue of Improvement Certificates in Long Island City.

Corporation Counsel Burr to-day announced that the city has been successful in a suit involving practically $1,000,000, carried to the United States Supreme Court by Commodore Elias C. Benedict.

The litigation arose from the issue of improvement certificates of the First Ward of Long Island City under an Act of 1874. Commodore Benedict contending that as the Treasurer of Long Island City had not redeemed the certificates the City of New York, as the successor Long Island City, was liable for the payment.

The certificates were issued against assessments levied on properties improved and were to be redeemed when the assessments were paid or the property sold for nonpayment. The statute authorized the issue, but compelled the Treasurer of Long Island City to sell property on which assessments had not been paid for not less than the amount of the assessments. This Act was subsequently amended, allowing the sale of the property for less than the amount of the assessment. This, Commodore Benedict claimed, was unconstitutional and made the certificates worthless.

SOUND OF GERMAN GUNS PHOTOGRAPHED BY U. S. AND LOCATED IN MINUTE

Princeton Scientist Reveals How Engineers Got Information to American Batteries.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 4.

DETAILS of the "Sound Ranging Service" in the overseas army by means of which the location and calibre of enemy guns were recorded and a photographic chart finished one minute after enemy artillery activity commenced were made public here to-day by Prof. Augustus Trowbridge of the Physics Department, until recently Lieutenant Colonel in the Engineer Corps and Chief of the Sound and Flash Ranging Service of the second American Army.

In recognition of his work at the head of this branch of the expeditionary forces Prof. Trowbridge was recently awarded the Distinguished Service Cross by the British Government.

Central stations located in dug-outs or shattered buildings along the front recorded photographically the arrival of sound from German batteries. These instruments, in addition, developed and fixed photographic charts automatically in less than a minute after the arrival of the sound of firing. In one minute more, information as to the exact position, target and calibre of enemy artillery could be telephoned to waiting American batteries.

Catholic Alumnae Elect Mrs. Sheeran.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—The International Federation of Catholic Alumnae ended its five-day biennial convention last night with the election of Mrs. James J. Sheeran of New York as President. Resolutions were adopted endorsing the League of Nations and asking Congress to assist in securing self-determination for Ireland.

How Bond Bread got its name

FIRST—we knew you would like to know what is in the bread
you buy—
So we decided to print the ingredients on the wrapper of each loaf.

Then, to guarantee that these ingredi-
